Folks,

Well, at least two people are bidding. As a circuit design study, it could be interesting. Since I already have a proper glows-in-the-dark SP600, I'm not tempted.

I once (1970s) knew an engineer who thought it would be amusing to replace the tubes in his HRO with FETs and conspicuously power it from a 9V battery, taped to the outside. I have no idea if he ever did it.

My SP600 brings in the BBC from Thailand at my QTH near San Francisco most mornings just fine. I should add that I am on the wrong side of a 1000 foot mountain, facing east.

Peace,

Scott

For what it's worth,

VERY RARE-Gibbs, H-740 antique microphone

Item number: 180339029183

Someone just bought a microphone from Ebay Seller <<http://myworld.ebay.com/brittanybumgardner/>>brittanybumgardner for $US $60.66 .

Wait until they check the shipping charges of: US $99.99

Thinking this was an error I sent her a message

Is the $99. for shipping an error? I'll bid on this to win, but I won't pay $99 to have it shipped. About $9. or so would be fair.
Let me know soon if you want me to bid.
John Dilks

and she replied as follows

Dear john,

No is it not a error, the reason it is like that is I knew it was worth a lot and and was not going to give it away, but if you know what it is you then no it is well worth it, anyway thank, Brittany
- brittanybumgardner

She later replied:

Dear john,

You know sir that my shipping and handling fees our my business and if you would like to bid then just bid, ebay rules on shipping and handling are nothing like you think, the man that is the so called other 2 people complaining about me not combining shipping is my business, I do not and wil not tell others what to price their stuff and I want to be treated the same way, try reading the shipping and handling part in the policy part on ebay, it only states media ideas and game for children, anyway some people in this world think everything is free my time and troubles are worth something, if you can not understand that then you have aissue somewhere, anyway I think it is kind of odd that 4 people out of hundred's have a issues with my pricing, hum, hum,I guess all the others know what they are getting thanks Brittany
- brittanybumgardner

Interestingly, she only has a feedback from 16 customers, 2 not so good?

73, John

Lighten up Guys!

She probably meant to put in $9.99 and typed in the wrong amount.

Once you have bids on an items you can't correct it other than to add to the text.

I looked at some of her other items and there was nothing wrong with the shipping she was charging.

Paul, I'm inclined to agree with you. Those who can't spell often can't read either. John, ref her first response with reason plus second spouting rules, she hasn't read rules and procedures, either. Her excuse for high shipping is a description of why there are Reserve auctions (and not just on that site).

I don't especially care for them myself but if she wasn't willing to take less than $100 she should have put a $100 reserve on it. However, what eBay will eventually hang her with isn't overcharging for shipping but one of their catch-all or Catch-22 rules that says something like "you can't do anything that costs us money". She admitted that she put part of the selling price in shipping, which they don't (so far anyway) get a cut of.

Hi John

well if that Mic is really worth 160 bucks.... then I guess its OK deal...

HOWEVER ... if its NOT... and the 60 buck bid is about right for the mic..

then a complaint filed to EBAY by the BUYER ... about the exorbitant shipping and handling fees.... will get them reduced.....

Ebay considers High Handling Shipping fees as a way for the seller to get around paying ebay its fair commission rate
..... and they don't like it..... they WILL make her reduce the shipping..

And don't forget loss / damage and paypal claims only reimburse you for what the item cost, not some inflated shipping charge. When that meter you snagged for a penny and only $20 shipping arrived broken because some incompetent moron mailed it in a paper sack you have nothing to show for your $20.01 except a lot of regret. Complaint emails go un-answered and attempts to contact by phone get you a threatening reply to leave me alone or I will report you to the phone company for harrasment. Meanwhile ebay and paypal do nothing, even when the seller suggests you go f*** yourself. All true and happened to me.

Best suggestion is at least attempt to report such sellers for what they are---frauds trying to cheat the system. In the meantime---leave their crap to someone else. You CAN live without it. Maybe in time they and their junk they practically stole from some widow at a garage sale will go away.

My 2c worth on the subject anyway.

Paul K0UYA
